Your child's development

Topics include:

Independence: The child is driven from an internal source to quest for independence. How can this process be supported at home and in an educational setting?

Language/Communication: The child has an innate ability to develop language and communication skills. What unique characteristics of the child allow this phenomenal accomplishment?

Movement: The constant movement of the young child assists in the development of the body, but how important is movement to the development of the intellect and the character.

Freedom & Discipline: Acquiring the ability to be self-disciplined can only come from being allowed certain freedoms. How can self-discipline be fostered in the child?

SANDRA GIRLATO is a world renowned presenter on child development with over twenty-five years experience and is the Director of AMI Teacher Training at the Foundation for Montessori Education, Toronto.
